Soviets Take Over Offensive

STEADY ADVANCE NEAR OREL

THE Russians have gone over to the offensive.

In a special Soviet communiqué issued last night it is announced that Russian troops, north of Orel, have advanced 26 miles and taken 50 inhabited localities, and that 60 inhabited localities have been captured in a 15 miles advance east of Orel. In three days' fighting, it is stated, 2,000 Germans have been captured and 12,000 killed.

110 Localities Captured

The communiqué, cabled by Reuter, states:—

"Recently our troops north and east of Orel, after several counter-attacks, themselves launched an offensive in two directions—from the area north of Orel towards the south, and from the area east of Orel towards the west. North of Orel our troops pierced strongly-fortified defensive lines of the enemy on a front stretching for 40 kilometres (25 miles), and in three days have advanced for 45 kilometres (26 miles). Numerous enemy fortifications and strong points have been smashed.

"Our troops in this direction have occupied more than fifty inhabited localities, including Ulyanovo, Staritsa, Sorokino, Molnovo, Duborovsky, Krapivna, Shvanovo, Yagodnoye, Elensk, Trosna, Plen and Vesniny.

"East of Orel our troops broke through the strongly-fortified German lines on a front of 30 kilometres (20 miles), and, overcoming enemy resistance, advanced 20 to 25 kilometres (12 to 15 miles). In this sector our troops occupied sixty inhabited localities, including Orlovko, Vysokoe, Vyazhi, Pogodnaya, Kazan, Melyn, Petukna and Berezovosk.

"According to incomplete data our troops captured the following booty—40 tanks, 210 guns of different calibre, 187 mortars, 99 machine-guns and 27 dumps. The following were destroyed—109 tanks, 294 'planes and 47 guns of different calibre. The offensive continues.

"On July 15, in the Byelgorod sector, our troops continued to repulse attacks launched by German infantry and tanks."

The military commentator of the German News Agency said last night that the situation is at present dominated by new reserves and new material thrown in by both sides east and north of Orel. "The fighting in the Byelgorod area," he added, "is no longer of major importance. The Russian regrouping referred to yesterday seems to be in full swing, and the great battle has thus entered a new phase."

Capt. Ludwig Sertorius affirmed last night that in the last two days Soviet attacks north and west of Orel have reached such intensity that "one must speak of a regular offensive by Timoshenko in relief of General Rokossovsky's army group, which has suffered heavily in the Kursk battle. Timoshenko has thrown in an entire army—that is, eight to ten rifle divisions and several tank brigades—on a very narrow front and amassed a considerable amount of artillery."

The German News Agency, quoted by Reuter, describes the Red Army's offensive at Orel as diversionary attacks on a line from Byelev to Sukhinichi, and a desperate attempt to create a diversion at any cost, the Agency explained. "They have thereby uselessly increased the extent of their already exceptionally heavy losses in men and materials without having a more than local effect on German plans.

"In this diversionary fighting on a front nearly 100 miles wide north of Orel," the Agency added, "isolated small breaches were sealed off and cleaned up. Only in one local breach is the cleaning up by reserves still in progress."

The supplement to last night's Soviet communiqué states:—"In the Byelgorod direction our troops repulsed fierce enemy attacks. Having brought up fresh tank and infantry forces, the enemy attempted to break our resistance. In the course of these attacks the Germans sustained heavy losses in men and material. German tanks, which succeeded in penetrating our lines, fell into minefields, and were subjected to artillery fire. Out of 17 tanks 14 were disabled or set on fire."

Stockowners Want Better Prices

At a meeting of the Irish Cattle Traders' and Stockowners' Association, held in Dublin on Wednesday last, the chairman, Mr. John Brutton, referred to the statement made by Lord Strabolgi in the British House of Lords, drawing attention to the decline in the imports of foodstuffs from Ireland in the last four years, due, he said, to the fact that the British Government did not guarantee Irish farmers similar prices for their products as those guaranteed to the British farmers.

The meeting expressed the opinion that, as these views coincided with the views of the livestock trade, the Government might take advantage of the statement by re-opening with the British authorities the question of better all-round prices for Irish livestock.

The meeting was also notified that the Great Southern Railways had agreed to increase the number of sheep and pigs to the half-waggon from 15 to 20.

Decided at Casablanca

MR. ROBERT PATTERSON, U.S. Acting Secretary of War, disclosed in Washington yesterday that the Sicilian invasion was decided at the Casablanca conference, and that General Eisenhower had determined the date before the Tunisia campaign ended.

He stated that heavy opposition is expected in Sicily, "as upward of 300,000 Axis troops, including 60,000 Germans, have good positions in the interior."

He added: "Our good luck in the landing operations may not be repeated."—(Reuter.)

"Fortress of Europe Breached"

A ROME radio commentator said last night:—"The result of three years of joint Anglo-American war effort has been hurled against Italy. The decisive question is how quickly, how opportunely and how completely the defensive and counter-attacking forces of Europe will come into play on Sicily's behalf. These are not yet fully engaged.

"One conviction must be absolutely dominant—the landing in Italy is a breach in the fortress of Europe, and the sooner it is sealed the sooner the freedom and independence of the European peoples will be saved.

"The disproportion of the forces does not dismay the Axis. We are ready for action such as history has never yet recorded. The battles are very hard. What lies before us is very hard. But the resistance will be as hard as granite."

Captain Sertorius, German radio military commentator, said that no important changes took place in the fighting yesterday.

"South of Catania," he said, "fresh German reserves which have been thrown in have counter-attacked, and have not merely stopped the British forces at various points, but have thrown them back several kilometres."—(Reuter.)

Air Battles Over Channel

Violent air battles took place last night over the English Channel and Northern France, according to military circles, quoted by German radio.

"About 60 bombers, in two waves, took part, with a strong fighter escort. The main part of the force was already dispersed by the German defences before reaching the coast," said the German report.

"German F.W. fighters attacked the bombers again and again, in spite of their strong fighter escort. The final result is not known yet."

Formations of R.A.F. 'planes in great strength flew across the Channel for upwards of an hour towards Northern France early last night, says the Press Association.

Fighter Command train-busting Mosquitoes showed on Wednesday night that enemy rail transport more than 300 miles from Britain is not safe from attacks by our night fighters, states the British Air Ministry News Service.

"One Mosquitoe of a number that were out over enemy territory severely damaged a locomotive to the south of Strasbourg—a flight involving a round trip of considerably over 600 miles," said the announcement.

"Typhoon and Boston bombers attacked airfields at Poix and Abbeville yesterday afternoon," says the British Air Ministry. Royal Air Force and Allied fighters escorted and supported the bombers. There were many combats with enemy fighters, seven of which were destroyed. Two other enemy fighters were shot down into the Channel by R.N.Z.A.F. pilots this morning. Seven of our aircraft are missing."

Sale of Coupons—Threat to Ration System

The sale of clothing coupons by people to visitors from the Six Counties is assuming such proportions that, if allowed to go unchecked, it will dislocate the entire ration system. This was the view expressed by a Dublin Garda in the Dublin District Court yesterday, when two juveniles were charged with selling coupons to visitors from Northern Ireland. The Guard said that, while the boys knew they were doing wrong, they did not realise how serious the matter was. The sale of coupons had become very widespread.

Mr. District Justice MacCarthy said that this type of offence was becoming very prevalent, and if he did not take serious action in the matter it would go unchecked. He remanded the boys on bail for a week.

Fish Plentiful To-day

Fish will be plentiful and, perhaps, slightly cheaper to-day.

The good supply is due to the fact that the Dublin Trawling Company's three vessels have discharged their catches here this week. Formerly two of the vessels landed their fish in a cross-Channel port consequent upon an arrangement regarding bunkering. Their catches more than compensated for a light local supply, and whiting, cod and hake were available in good quantity in yesterday's market. Prices were well maintained by a good demand, but herrings dropped to about 1½d. each.

BATTLE FOR GATEWAY TO CATANIA OPENS

Further Landings by Airborne Troops

THE battle for the gateway to the Catanian Plain and the city itself—the second largest in Sicily and half-way up the east coast to Messina—has begun.

Allied and Axis reports last night both disclosed that spearheads of General Montgomery's British and Canadian forces have clashed with German reserves of Panzers and anti-tank units drawn up before the four miles' wide Lentini "bottleneck" guarding the southern entrance to the Plain.

"Pushed Back"

Berlin spokesmen claimed that the German forces pushed the British back for a distance of several miles.

Further landings by British and American airborne troops were announced last night, says a Reuter message from Allied Headquarters. The Americans are now stated to have taken Palma.

RESISTANCE GROWS

Eighth Army spearheads bearing down on Lentini, less than fifteen miles from Catania, are striking into advance units of a powerful German force—apparently drawn up across the Lentini bottleneck guarding the entrance to the Catania Plain—says Reuter's Special Correspondent at Allied H.Q.

The German forces, ready to fight for the plain and Catania itself, include powerful Panzer and anti-tank formations, and units of the crack Hermann Goering divisions.

The four miles wide bottleneck, a few miles beyond Lentini, is formed by the narrow strip of land between Lentini Lake, on the left, and the Carlentini Marshes running down to the sea. The main road to Catania strikes across the centre of the neck of land.

British columns are driving along the coastal roads north of Augusta. Already Brucoli, on the coast, is in Allied hands. Front line reports reaching Allied Headquarters last night stated that the Germans are deployed in ever-increasing strength barring the Eighth Army's path. The Axis commanders realise the gravity of the British threat to the plain, with its chain of air bases and the city of Catania itself.

Axis troops with whom the British are already engaged are fighting grimly. While the Battle of the Bottleneck seems imminent, here are th main points of the "considerable gains" reported in General Eisenhower's communiqué yesterday:—

British troops in the mountains of the south-eastern peninsula have advanced six to seven miles;

Other Eighth Army units have captured Melilli, a few miles south-west of Augusta, and Brucoli, on the coast, to the north;

American forces in the Western sectors have advanced four miles beyond Ragusa, and they have captured an unnamed aerodrome, and made a total push of 10 miles in some areas;

General Alexander's 15th Army Corps has now captured 12,000 prisoners, as well as destroying a number of German "Tiger" tanks;

Another Italian commander, the general commanding the 54th Naples Division, and his staff have surrendered to the British troops;

The Allies have now occupied six aerodromes—Comiso, Biscari, Farello, Ponte Olivo, Licato and Pachino—and the seaplane base at Syracuse.

The British forces driving north for Catania were yesterday pushing towards Lentini, after throwing back Wednesday's powerful German counter-attack on Augusta. It was the first big clash with the Germans—and a taste of the resistance which General Montgomery's formations will probably have to face in the battle for Catania.

Some units of the Hermann Goering Division took part in this first serious counter-attack, which, at one stage, cut off the British garrison in the port. The counter-blow started at dawn. Strong attacking forces hit at the British troops, who had been in the naval base only a few hours. The garrison battled strongly, but the Axis forces cut the link between the town and the main British forces.

Big Counter-attack

The struggle was concentrated just to the south of Augusta. Montgomery's main troops struck back, and, after a struggle lasting several hours the Axis forces were driven off, and contact was re-established between the Eighth Army and the garrison.

Axis resistance is mounting, but Italian prisoners state that the Axis forces suffered heavy casualties through being forced to retreat across their own minefields.

TOWNS TAKEN

On both flanks the British troops have made important captures. The British left on Wednesday entered Melilli, a town a few miles from the coast, south-west of Augusta. Its capture involved a straightening of the British front. Advancing four miles beyond Augusta, in face of the first heavy resistance encountered, the British troops took Brucoli.

The Allied line from the extreme left, in the area of Palma, to the British sectors north of Augusta has been pushed forward in a concerted advance Progress ranges in penetration from eight miles on much of the British sector to an average of four miles on the American Seventh Army front, but late reports say that the Americans have advanced considerably farther beyond Ragusa.

The Axis High Command is obviously concentrating its greatest strength to meet the most powerful threat from Montgomery's coastal striking force. Capture of Catania, with its important communications centres, would mean that all Axis reinforcements from the west would be forced to take the circuitous route north of the Etna mountain mass.

If the Americans can thrust north at the same speed as the Eighth Army the island can be cut in two.

AIR ATTACKS

Messina, vital communications point in Sicily, had its heaviest raid when 275 'planes attacked it on Wednesday, 200 of them Flying Fortresses, Mitchells and Marauders from North African bases, and 75 Liberators from the Middle East.

Reuter's special correspondent says no Axis fighters were encountered, but there was heavy and accurate A.-A. fire. Great damage was caused, it is stated, and many fires were started. A pillar of smoke was said to rise 12,000 feet—2,000 feet higher than Mount Etna.

Hundreds of other Allied 'planes ranged over the island all day, attacking road and rail transport and clearing paths for the advancing troops. Among their targets was the road and rail centre of Enna, in the heart of Sicily. Both ends of a railway tunnel were closed with direct hits. Axis shipping was hit in Sicilian ports and off Corsica and Sardinia on Wednesday night.

National Planning Exhibition

Preparations are well under way for the National Planning Exhibition, which will be held in the Mansion House, Dublin, from November 8th to 18th, 1943, under the auspices of the National Planning Conference. The Sixth Information Bulletin published by the Conference includes a copy of the cover of a handbook on National Planning, which will be circulated in connection with the exhibition, and a list of subjects that will be dealt with by special contributors. The subjects include:—Agricultural and manufacturing industries; inland and overseas transport; medical, veterinary and public health services; sea and inland fisheries; afforestation; arterial drainage; recreation in town and country; parish councils; tourist organisation, etc.

The Bulletin also contains a series of "broadcasts"—reproduced from the Irish Builder and Engineer—which are designed to enable readers to appreciate the need of balancing many-sided and interlocking interests in preparing the groundwork of a National Development Plan.

New Air Offensive in Pacific

Australian and American ground forces in New Guinea are expected at any moment to start an all-out assault against Mubo, 16 miles south-west of the main Japanese base of Salamaua, says Reuter's special correspondent at Allied Headquarters, south-west Pacific.

General MacArthur's Headquarters announced last night that the Allied troops have captured two important hills in the Japanese defence system about a mile from Mubo.

General MacArthur's communiqué says that during the past 24 hours Allied air forces launched a powerful new air offensive throughout the Pacific area, striking at eleven widely separated points from Timor in the west to the Kolombangara Straits in the east.

Tokyo claimed yesterday that their New Georgia Island garrison on Wednesday repulsed American attempts to land from Roviana, to the east of Munda, and that other units attempting to co-ordinate the offensive east of Munda were "hurled back."

Canadian Premier Protested to Roosevelt

Mr. Mackenzie King, the Canadian Premier, told the House of Commons in Ottawa yesterday, says Reuter, that he protested last Thursday by 'phone to President Roosevelt against the original plan of the British Government and General Eisenhower to make no mention of the Canadian troops' participation in the initial Sicilian invasion. Mr. Roosevelt agreed that the Canadians should be given immediate public credit, and Eisenhower was instructed accordingly.

The Commons applauded vigorously when the Premier said he would keep all military secrets possible, but was determined to regard the Canadian fighting services as on a par with those of Britain and the United States. "Certainly, from quality, effectiveness and right, if not from numbers, they are entitled to equality in all statements," he added.

The Prime Minister made his statement when Opposition members protested against the British Government's action in concealing until Wednesday the fact that the Canadian First Division was in Sicily. Mr. MacKenzie King said he had appealed last week to President Roosevelt and the British Government to see that the Canadians were mentioned when the attack was launched, but "got no satisfaction in the replies."

Realising that statements would be issued by General Eisenhower, he appealed directly to Mr. Roosevelt last Thursday. The President agreed that the general should mention Canadian participation.

"In these matter," Mr. MacKenzie King added, "the Government were being guided by London, which does not lessen public feeling, strongly expressed in Parliament and the Press, that such delay in the presentation of facts is hard to explain as a war necessity."—(Reuter.)

ELECTION DISAPPOINTS LABOUR

DESPITE Labour's gains in the general election prominent members of the Party feel that they should have done much better. This was the keynote of speeches delivered by Dublin's Lord Mayor, Alderman M. O'Sullivan, T.D., and Mr. P. Connolly, T.D., at a largely attended organisation meeting held in the Mansion House, Dublin, last night

"Although we increased our representation by 100 per cent.," declared the Lord Mayor, "it is, nevertheless, a disturbing factor that only approximately 25 per cent. of the candidates we put up were returned. We had hoped that our results would have been very much better."

Mr. Connolly said that despite their noteworthy achievement in recording an increase of nearly 80,000 votes, they should have done better "despite the dive-bombing attacks of other party propaganda machines."

Explaining Labour's reasons for not voting against the election of An Taoiseach, Mr. J. Larkin, junior, T.D., said that Labour's basic problem was to safeguard their political independence — something they could not do if they voted for Fianna Fail—while, on the other hand, if they voted against Mr. de Valera they would then have been confronted with Mr. Cosgrave's nomination. They had decided, after careful consideration, not to vote for either party.

Mr. J. Tunney, T.D., said that while he was a member of the Fianna Fail Party he had done his best to make the Government realise that they were going back on promises they had made. "When they made the Standstill Order against wages Mr. de Valera told the party that anyone who voted against him would be expelled, there and then," said Mr. Tunney. "I said that I would vote against him, and he had not the guts to expel me. I left myself. One thing I will say about Fine Gael—they never got into power on false promises."

A Voice—Why were you with them for ten years when you knew they were making false promises?

Mr. Tunney replied that he had never voted for anything that was detrimental to the interests of the working classes.

Footwear Prices to be Controlled

THE price of footwear will be controlled from August 3. An Order made by the Minister for Supplies relates to the prices to be charged by manufacturers, importers, wholesalers and retailers.

Minister's Tribute to A.F.S.

Of all the A.R.P. services, fire-fighting was the most important, said the Minister for Co-ordination of Defensive Measures (Mr. F. Aiken), speaking last night at the inter-area section competitions, which were held in the Drill Yard of the Central Fire Station, Tara street, Dublin.

Mr. Aiken said he trusted they would persevere with the good work as long as the emergency lasted, and added that there was no reason why the fire-fighting service could not be augmented in Dublin and throughout the country, as they had the necessary equipment.

The Lord Mayor (Alderman M. O'Sullivan, T.D.) said that it was a great consolation to the citizens of Dublin to know that, in any serious emergency which might arise, not only would they have the finest fire-fighting service in the world in the personnel of the Fire Brigade, but that behind it there was a magnificent second-line defence in the Auxiliary Fire Service.

Winners of the inter-area challenge shield were:—No. 1 Area, Smithfield (Trailer Pump Crew—Station Officer F. Gillespie, Messrs. M. Molloy, J. Freeney, T. Greville, P. Carr. Stirrup Pump Crew—The Misses M. Sutton M. Carrigg, and K. Goggin). A set of medals in the trailer pump competition was won by No. 5 Area (Thomas street), the personnel of which were:—Sub-Officer D. Reid, Messrs. J. Brennan, G. O'Brien, J. Quinn, and G. Goddard.

Brooches were won by the women's stirrup pump crews from Areas No. 7 (Ballsbridge)—the Misses L. Robinson, M. Douglas and J. McGoris—and No. 11 (Clontarf)—the Misses S. Cassidy, E. Madden and E. Tobias—who tied with faultless rounds.

Archbishop Spellman arrived yesterday at Lourenco Marques, and will visit the Union of South Africa on Monday.—(Reuter.)

CASH FOR SENATE VOTERS

A WARNING that votes in the Senate elections can be purchased was given at yesterday's meeting of the Association of Municipal Authorities of Ireland in Dublin, by Mr. A. Clery, a member from Arklow.

Announcing that he had been approached by a candidate who offered him "a substantial cash consideration" for his vote, he suggested an alternative voting system, in which each Senate voter would record his vote personally in the presence of a Garda officer or District Justice.

"My experience is not singular," he maintained. "In other areas it is well-known that votes, first, second, and even third preferences, have been purchased."

When the practice had been described by Mr. Martin McGrath as "dishonest and contemptible," the meeting condemned it unanimously.

Asked by an Irish Times reporter to comment upon the position, election officials were non-committal. "If anyone is approached in this manner they should send a report to the Attorney-General," replied one authority, who added, "Purchasing votes is a criminal offence in this election as in any other."

Senate Nominees

The following Senate nominations have been received by the Returning Officer, Mr. Wilfrid Browne:—

Cultural and Educational Panel—Sean O'Donovan, Veterinary Surgeon; James J. Parkinson, Veterinary Surgeon; John M. O'Connor, ex-Civil Servant; Brian Gilpatrick, Ard Mhaighister na Modh-Sgol Lair. Messrs. Gilpatrick and O'Connor nominated by Leinster College of Irish.

Industrial and Commercial Panel—Martin Conlan, Auctioneer; Henry M. Grey, Secretary; John C. M. Eason, Company Director; James G. Douglas, Company Director.

Senator D. D. Healy (Dublin), and Councillor J. Reddington (Galway) were nominated to the Administrative Sub-Panel at a special meeting yesterday in the City Hall, Dublin, of the Association of Municipal Authorities of Ireland, whose annual conference will take place on the 14th, 15th and 16th of September at Wexford, by invitation of the Mayor of Wexford.

Mr. Michael Hearne, Longford, former member, and Mr. James Thomas McGee, Co. Louth, member since 1938, were, at a meeting of the Irish County Councils' General Council in Dublin yesterday, nominated to the Administrative Panel.

Cork Farmers' Association have nominated Mr. P. D. Lehane, secretary of the Association, who was an unsuccessful Dail candidate in S.E. Cork.

The council of Irish Beet Growers' Association nominated Senator W. O'Callaghan and Mr. Thomas Walsh.

U.S. Charges Refuted

Lord Cranborne, in the British House of Lords yesterday, said it was absolutely clear that there was "no case to inquire into," when reference was made to "innuendoes" against certain companies, including British Imperial Chemicals, Ltd.

Lord Strabolgi had asked whether the Government's attention had been drawn to charges by the United States Department of Justice against three American chemical companies which were accused of conspiring with a German, Italian and Japanese company, and with British Imperial Chemicals, Ltd., to create trade monopoly, and whether they would conduct an inquiry.

Lord McGowan, Chairman of I.C.I., said he welcomed the opportunity of making a statement. "I.C.I.," he declared, "was not indicted in the case to which Lord Strabolgi had referred, but was merely named as one of the parties to the agreement with an American company. There is no suggestion that I.C.I., a British company, has in any way, directly or indirectly, done anything to be ashamed of, or in any way infringed the laws of this country. We have nothing to hide and nothing to apologise for, and my explanation is a mere act of courtesy to the House."

A.-A. Defences in Action

Gunfire was heard in the Thames estuary early this morning. Raiders which were over an East Anglian coast town were chased out to sea. A.-A. defences were in action. No bombs were dropped.—(Press Association.)

Mr. Donald Cameron, Australian Minister for Aircraft Production, said yesterday in Melbourne that Australia is spending more on 'plane production in a fortnight than she did in the whole of 1940, and that Australia could now manufacture the most modern 'planes.—(Reuter.)

Mr. de Valera Replies to Mr. Morrison

"THOSE who read the reported reference in the British Home Secretary's speech to the many battles which our country had fought for what it conceived to be the cause of liberty will, I think, go on to ask themselves the question: Against what country, 'in one way or another,' had most of these battles to be fought?"

This was part of Mr. de Valera's reply to the speech of Mr. Herbert Morrison, Home Secretary and Minister for Home Security, at a luncheon in London in honour of Sir Basil Brooke, Prime Minister of Northern Ireland. Mr. de Valera continued:—

"They will also ask: What country is responsible for the continuing crime of partitioning this ancient nation of Ireland, and whose is the force that at this moment compels almost half a million of our people, including the majority in South Down and South Armagh, in the counties of Tyrone and Fermanagh, and in Derry City, to endure the denial of the freedom and liberties for which this war in the 'cause of human freedom,' to quote Mr. Morrison, is being fought?

"The British Home Secretary may have good reason for neglecting to ask these questions, but the people in the six counties who have been cut off from the motherland will not forget to ask them, nor will Irishmen who love Ireland, no matter where they live, ever cease to ask them so long as partition remains."

Mr. Morrison's remark was as follows:—"The tragic thing is that Eire, a country which has fought many a battle for what it conceived to be the cause of liberty, in one way or another, should have stood aside neutral—indifferent to this, one of the most dramatic and fateful struggles in the history of all mankind. That does not stand up too well in the history of the nations."

Beet Growers Want Better Prices

"ONLY a mixture of patriotism and sugar had prompted the farmers to grow beet," declared Mr. M. Corry, T.D., Cork, criticising the fixed price of 60s. per ton to beet growers, at the annual meeting of the Irish Sugar Beet Growers' Association, Ltd., yesterday. A resolution recommending a substantial increase next year was passed.

Proposing that representatives of the Association be present at a round-table conference when fixing next year's price, Mr. Corry said that it was a scandal that the growers should have to depend on the Sugar Company to convey their views to the Government. The farmers had been ignored in that respect for two years. Producers who had a clear case for an increase in price had been treated with contempt, said Mr. J. Hughes, T.D., seconding.

This year's beet area was 80,761 acres, the highest since the industry was established in 1926; but last year only 49,534 acres were grown, compared with 73,463 acres in 1941, it was stated in the report of the secretary (Mr. A. M. Fahy). Shortage of fertilisers was reflected in last year's yield and sugar content. Scarcity of feeding stuffs had made it necessary for most of the growers to take back all their pulp, and 13,089 tons less than last year were marketed.

The Minister for Agriculture had told a deputation that there was no hope of an increased price for the 1943 crop.

BEHIND TIMES

The country was years behind the times in agricultural science, declared Captain Redmond, condemning "slipshod methods of testing soil." Farmers had not been instructed in taking soil samples.

Mr. Hughes, T.D., said that there were thousands of acres deficient in calcium and acid, and beet was susceptible to lack of calcium. Many farmers were wasting their time trying to grow beet in unsuitable soil. In Northern Ireland the cost of ground limestone was only a few shillings, and farmers were encouraged to use it on acid soil.

Mr. C. Mooney, T.D., asked the secretary to ascertain from Associated Seed Growers, Ltd., whether artificial manure would be available for next year's crop before it was too late. The industry was one which might retain thousands of pounds in the country, and the commercial side of the industry should not be allowed to kill it.

Customs Officers to Travel on Trains

Amiens Street Station, Dublin terminus of the G.N.R., from this afternoon till Sunday evening, will absorb an almost constant flow of people—some 16,000, apart from normal business travellers—on their way back to the North of Ireland after a week's holidays.

In order to ease the Customs formalities, Customs officers will travel on the trains from Dublin, and carry out their searches between the city and Dundalk.

In the last few days, Northern-bound trains have yielded a surprisingly large quantity of uncustomed articles, including butter, handbags, clothing and assorted goods.

Naples had a two-hour air raid early yesterday, says German radio, quoted by Reuter. Heavy damage was caused to the famous promenade, it added.

Seven Years for Fermanagh Man

A sentence of seven years' penal servitude was imposed by Mr. Justice Brown, at Fermanagh Assizes yesterday, on Patrick P. Tinney (23), of Garvary Leggs Post Office, Belleek, for being in possession of 17lb. of gelignite, found in a 'bus on which he was a passenger. The man had admitted ownership of the parcel and also of a parcel of papers relating to an illegal organisation.

Wendell Willkie to Stand Again

Mr. Wendell Willkie indicated yesterday in Washington that he would run for the Presidency in the 1944 election. He opposed President Roosevelt in the last Presidential election.—(Reuter.)

21 days adrift!

THE scene is the Pacific Ocean, October 12, 1942. A big plane dips lower and lower, nearer and nearer to the heaving waves. The eight men of her crew brace themselves for a forced landing . . . the plane hits the water in a tremendous flurry of spray. The crew took to the rubber boats . . . and then began 21 days of drifting under the burning sun, drenched with salt spray, starved and parched with thirst. As the days went by, all but one of the watches in the party stopped, as salt water corrosion attacked the mechanism. Only one watch survived this racking ordeal—only one watch was able to take the terrific punishment of such an adventure. That watch, we are proud to say, was a Longines.

Rank Cup Won Outright

AT Killarney yesterday Sarawaki won the Rank Cup outright for Mr. T. Morrow, whose previous successes in the event were with Sarawaki in 1941 and Mar-Din in 1939. Crafty Prince was a slightly better favourite than Sarawaki for yesterday's event; but C. Sleator adopted forcing tactics on Mr. Morrow's horse and beat Crafty Prince by a couple of lengths.

Mr. P. Sleator, jun., trainer of Sarawaki, had another winner in Ballyboe who won the Bunrower Hurdle after a good finish with Derk, but the attempt at the treble failed when Soldier Bill found Coup de Martre just too good for him in the Mangerton Handicap.

The Muckross Chase fell to the 20 to 1 chance, The Clip, who beat the odds-on favourite, Knight of Altavon, and then survived an objection for boring.

Phœnix in Sight of Cricket Title

If Phœnix defeat Pembroke at Sydney Parade to-morrow afternoon, the Senior League Championship may be regarded as their property for the second season in succession. An addition of eight points would make their total 75, and that could be exceeded only if they failed to secure another point from their last four matches and Pembroke gained full points from their five concluding engagements. Such a contingency is so unlikely as to be hardly worthy of consideration. It looks odds-on a Phœnix win to-morrow. Since dismissing Phœnix from the Cup semi-final, Pembroke have had a poor time; they lost rather easily to their Cup victims the following week; were defeated by Clontarf in the final of the knock-out trophy, and were severely dealt with by the Merrion batsmen in a drawn game last Saturday. Even though Phœnix were almost surprised by Civil Service last week, they are the more likely to secure the full points from this match.

Merrion's recent batting improvement may give them a slight advantage over Clontarf at Anglesea road, but Dublin University do not seem able to get a respectable score, and YMCA were unsuccessful in College Park. Heartened by their fine effort against Phœnix, Civil Service may give Leinster a better match than usual at Rathmines, but a victory for them would be a surprise.

JAMES BRUEN'S GREAT GOLF RECORD

BY J. P. ROONEY.

IRELAND'S peerless golfer, James Bruen, now 23 years old, has recovered from a recent serious illness. He has had, as he put it to me, the "final check over" by his medical adviser, and hopes soon to be able to get back to competitive golf. Whether he will be able to take the game seriously this summer remains to be seen. The statement that he will be in action against Henry Cotton when the latter visits Killarney as a guest of the Earl of Kenmare in August would appear to me to be a little premature, but the hope is entertained by "Jimmy" that by then he will be quite fit.

The pre-eminence of James Bruen in Irish golf has been questioned recently by the admirers of another young player, and medal player he has been almost supreme in this country since 1936. Like all golfers in the very highest class, he has had lapses and disappointments, but his record proves that he has accomplished what no other Irish golfer has done.

I have been perusing his record to date, and have come across performances of his of which, I feel sure, many are not aware. Take, for instance, his record at Little Island (Cork) for the years 1937-1943. From January 6, 1937, to April 4th of this year his figures (all holed out) for 47 rounds of that by no means easy championship course work out at 100 under fours! Believe it or not, the figures are in the Competition Book at Little Island. I find that he was at the top of his form at Cork from 1941 onwards. In 1937-40 he scored 70's to 74 (he then played off 9 as 2) with the greatest consistency, and with an occasional 67, 68 and 69; but his gross figures for 1941 (he was then playing off plus 4) to date for fifteen rounds of medal play and against bogey (all holed out), but not including Stableford, include 64, 66, 68 (four times), 69 (six times). In all he has played nineteen rounds at the Island in under the 70's, Stableford again excluded. His lowest score there was 64 in the stroke competition on March 17 of this year.

Bruen started on his wonderful career at Muskerry, Co. Cork, on a handicap of 6, but in three weeks was down to scratch. He won the Boys' Championship in 1936, and from then on his rise to fame was remarkable for a lad of his years. He led Great Britain's first successful Walker Cup team at St. Andrews in 1938. His other distinctions include the Irish Close in 1937 and 1938, leading amateur Irish open 1937, 1938 and 1939, leading amateur the Open Championship 1938, Irish Open Amateur 1938, runner-up Prince of Wales Cup at Deal, runner-up Gold Vase at Sandwich, four times winner (in succession) of the Scratch Cup at Cork, amateur course records for both courses at St. Andrews and at Sandwich 1938, and holder of the amateur course records for Portmarnock 70, Newcastle 66, Royal Portrush 71, Baltray 71, Little Island 67 and Muskerry 65.

Egan Beats Kemp in Fine Match

THE men's singles final to-morrow in the East of Ireland Lawn Tennis Championship will be a repeat of last week's Irish Open decider, R. F. Egan v. F. Kenny. Once again C. A. Kemp has had to relinquish a title he held last season, for Egan beat him in the semi-final yesterday, and Kenny disposed of J. Fitzgibbon.

Egan has improved his game this season. Without sacrificing any of his solid defensive qualities, he can now launch an attack at the right moment, generally ending up at the net, where he is far ahead of any other Irish player. In a splendid match against Kemp he never let the latter get really on top, as was the case a year ago; but, all the same, he had to fight desperately hard to avoid defeat in two sets. Kemp took the first, led 4-3 in the second, and had opportunities galore to win the next two games only to lose both. When Egan finally levelled the sets, Kemp's game collapsed, and Egan pressed home every opening for a capital victory.

The Anglesea player, Fitzgibbon, fought Kenny game for game throughout a long set. His driving was sound, and he cut off a lot of Kenny's best shots at the net, but the latter had the advantage of pace and length on the drive, and this began to tell in the second set.

Miss M. Mathews got off to a flying start against the woman champion, Miss Lombard, taking the first three games, but her effort ended when she lost the first set in the twelfth game. Miss Lombard quietly, but firmly, collecting the next six games for the match. Miss Lister led Miss Poole 4-0 in the first set of the other semi-final, but after that it became a grim struggle, which Mrs. Lister just won by never letting herself be slowed down by a determined opponent. Results:—

Men's Singles Championship.—Semi-finals—F. Kenny beat J. Fitzgibbon, 8-6, 6-3; R. F. Egan beat C. A. Kemp, 4-6, 9-7, 6-1.

Second Round—T. G. McVeagh and Miss Lombard beat J. C. Davis and Miss R. Sheehy, 6-1, 6-0.

Keen contests marked the University College, Dublin, swimming club's ninth annual gala at Blackrock Baths, Dublin, last night. The most exciting race of the night was the Men's Flying Squadron. Lowry, of Queen's, just getting there by a touch from G. McCabe, Leinster. The Women's Squadron Race, which was won by Leinster, also provided an exciting tussle, the strong swimming of Hazel Dagg deciding the issue.

Untried British Prisoners

MR HERBERT MORRISON, Home Secretary, told the British House of Commons last night that for the conduct of the war certain exceptional law-making powers were essential, and he defended his actions under the Defence Regulations as right.

The powers were conferred, he said, "to prevent us having our throats cut or being blown up." The crisis was still on.

He begged the House not to underestimate the dangers of fifth columnists, whom he described as "nasty bits of work." Protests against continued detention without trial were made, Mr. Stokes (Lab.) saying that it was never the House's intention that the regulation should be used to keep persons in detention without trial for an indefinite period. He spoke of Capt. Ramsay, saying he did not believe he would do anything consciously against the interests of Britain.

"I know he has odd views," he said, "but if people are going to be locked up for having odd views quite a number of M.P.s are in danger."

Capt. Ramsay, M.P., served in the last war, and had three sons fighting in this, and he (Mr. Stokes) suspected that there were other motives behind his detention. He suspected that it had something to do with what Capt. Ramsay knew of the Tyler Kent case and the knowledge he had of certain telegrams which passed between high up officials in Britain and high up officials in America.

"This House is failing in its duty by not demanding that Captain Ramsay should come to the House and state his case," he added.

Of Sir Oswald Mosley, Mr. Stokes declared: "I would deal in one of two ways with him: I would shoot him or let him out."

429 DETAINED

Mr. Pickthorn (Con.) considered it an infinitely worse fate than death to be detained for a number of years. The number detained must be getting on to 2,000 people, and it should surely have been possible to have tried some of them.

The Solicitor-General (Sir David Maxwell Fyfe) said it would be impossible to carry on the war if the Act was not brought into operation again.

Mr. Gledhill (Con.) complained that Parliamentary control had been swept away in a spate of orders and regulations.

Mr. Morrison said that there were now about 429 in detention, as compared with 529 on June 30, 1942.

Sir Archibald Southby (Con.), referring to Captain Ramsay, said that an M.P. should not be locked up and his voice silenced without the House being told why in secret session, and without giving the member a chance to defend himself.

Improved Demand for Home Rails

ALTHOUGH markets made rather a quiet showing on the Dublin Stock Exchange yesterday, the tone continued firm in most sections. There was renewed selective buying of Irish Securities, which produced a couple of good features.

In Home Government Funds, 4 p.c. Conversion Loan relapsed 12/6 to 110½, and National Security Loan dropped to 106½; but other issues were well maintained. 3½ p.c. War Loan shaded off to 104½.

Banks showed little life, and Nationals hardened to 45/9. Guinness units enjoyed further good support, and closed pence better at 121/3.

Bright and busy conditions prevailed among Home Rails. Great Northern Ord. rose to 19, the Pref. to 41, and 5½ p.c. Debenture to 56. Great Southern issues held steady to harder, and the Pref. improved to 15½.

Dublin Transport Ord. shaded off to 2/7½, but Pref. and Deb. were in demand for strong support, and advanced to 19/10½. Pim Bros. Ord. hardened to 4/3, and

The maximum profit margins to be taken by Wholesalers and Retailers are fixed in the Order and are as follows:—

	Maximum Wholesaler's Margin.	Maximum Retailer's Margin.
1. Footwear (excluding leather leggings and leather gaiters) of the following sizes:—
Infants' sizes, 0, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6	17½%	33⅓%

Boots other than those included in above descriptions, excepting surgical boots, riding boots and women's bootees
All other kinds of footwear	10%	50%

The resulting retail prices will be fixed by reference to these margins and to the other provisions of the Order. On and after the appointed day, 3rd August, 1943, when the Order comes into operation, footwear must be sold retail at either:— 1. Specified Retail Prices or 2. Marginal Retail Prices. 1. Specified retail prices will apply to all footwear which is manufactured or produced in the State and sold by the manufacturers thereof on or after the appointed day, and the specified retail price must be marked on each article. 2. No specified retail price footwear may be sold without having the price suitably marked thereon. Marginal retail prices may or may not be marked on articles, depending upon the practice of the retail trader in each case. The Order places upon each retailer the obligation to have a printed copy of the Order available for inspection by any person at the premises of the retailer. Retailers should, accordingly, order copies without delay. Copies of the Order, which comes into operation on the 3rd day of August, 1943, will be on sale in the course of a few days, and can be purchased directly from the Government Publications Sale Office, 3/4 College Street, Dublin or through any Bookseller. STUDY-VACATION FOR YOUNG DUBLIN MEN

Sixty young, unemployed Dublin men are shortly to take on the pleasantest job in Eire to-day.

On July 29 they will go down into the countryside of Tipperary for a 10-day study-vacation. They will live, as all youth likes to live, under canvas. Five meals a day of rich country fare will be theirs. In the informality of camp life they will find at the same time relaxation and inspiration to study rural problems and ways of life.

This vacation marks the second stage in the broad programme of education mapped out by the Youth Training Centres which were founded in September of last year. The sixty youths were selected from among the 500 under the direct control of the movement in its own centres. They will go to Rockwell College, accompanied by Youth Leaders, instructors, chaplains, etc., and will visit farms, beauty spots, and afforestation schemes in the area during their holiday. As many of the Youth Leaders are trained agriculturists, the gain to the youths in practical instruction will be very great.

Leading the party will be Mr. Martin Gleeson, Director, Youth Training Centres, who said yesterday to an Irish Times reporter: "Hitherto the whole emphasis in education has been placed on the city. We intend, so far as we are able, to reverse that order, which is entirely wrong in an agricultural country such as ours. We are trying out the idea this year—in our first summer—and we undoubtedly will extend it next year if it is as successful as we anticipate."

UNLUCKIEST "ZOO" INHABITANTS

By Our Animal Reporter.

Certificate for the unluckiest, most-harried inhabitants of Dublin's "Zoo" must go to the corncrake family.

Sitting on her nest, in her own specially-planted miniature cornfield, with five sweet little eggs in process of incubation, Mrs Corncrake was yesterday foully attacked by a rat—and had her throat almost cut. While not a fatal wound, it has considerably cut the hen off her stroke, and she has abandoned the eggs.

The cock, states Mr. Cedric L. Flood, Superintendent, is so puzzled and enraged that he will run up to anybody who approaches the bars and "waaak-waaak" an eye-witness account of the whole occurrence. The last unhappy incident in the family was when the two grandparent corncrakes were cut to pieces by a mowing-machine several years ago.

The old crocodile pool in the reptile house, I hear, is to be converted into a python pool. Good swimmers, the pythons will give swimming displays in the water and demonstrate tree-climbing in the surrounding branches.

Happy at the steady business now coming in to the "Zoo" from Northern visitors, Mr. Flood recalls sympathetically that their own Belle-vue Zoo destroyed 33 animals after the blitz. Dublin, however, can still show them everything they want to see.

THE MOON, NOT THE SAINT

St. Swithin's Day skies were, as usual, watched attentively by the large number of people who think there may be something in the old belief that the weather on that day determines the weather for the forty succeeding days.

Experts, however, carried out their observations without feeling that the day had any special significance. "The popular belief has absolutely no foundation," one of them said. "The weather has nothing to do with St. Swithin, however, but it is related to the full moon."

Progress in Sicily

After nearly a week of preliminary skirmishing, the battle for Sicily is beginning to take some kind of shape. The Italian newspapers themselves admit quite frankly that the weight of British and American naval bombardment was so heavy that the invading forces could not be defeated on the Sicilian beaches; and it is evident now that German and Italian resistance, which at the outset seemed to be suspiciously weak, is growing steadily as the Allies advance, particularly along the eastern coast of the island, where General Montgomery's Eighth Army is conducting the Allied operations. The tactics that are being pursued by the Allies in Sicily resemble those that were pursued in Tunisia, when the British thrust along the eastern coast, while the Americans and the French made detours in an effort to catch the Afrikakorps on the flank. Since the original landings last Saturday General Montgomery has been pressing forward towards the Catanian plain, while the Americans and other British formations have been consolidating their bridgeheads along the southern coast from Cape Passero to the neighbourhood of Porto Empedocle, and advancing towards the centre of the island in rather more leisurely fashion than the picked troops of the Eighth Army. The latest reports indicate that, while the Allied advance has been steady, it has been by no means simple. The British and Americans have occupied seven air bases in all including the seaplane base at Syracuse. The land bases comprise Comiso, Biscari, Farello, Porte Olivo, Licata, and Pachino, all of which are situated along the southern coast. Possession of these aerodromes has enabled the Anglo-American Allies to make those "considerable gains" of which General Eisenhower speaks in his bulletin. The Americans have penetrated into the interior of the island to an average depth of about ten miles; but they have not yet captured the important town of Agrigento, from the region of which stiff fighting is reported. General Montgomery's forces, having seized Syracuse and Augusta, now are attacking Lentini, where there is a "bottle-neck" of some four miles in width between the lake of the same name and the Carlentini marshes. Behind this "bottle-neck," it appears, the Axis defenders have deployed substantial forces, including powerful Panzer and anti-tank formations, as well as units of the famous Hermann Goering Division. Beyond this position lies the Catanian plain and the vital town of Catania itself, which is second in importance and size only to Palermo. Apparently the Axis High Command has decided to make its first serious stand at Catania, which, lying close to the foot of Etna, has an excellent and valuable harbour.

Since the entry of the British troops into Augusta progress along the eastern coast has been slow. It was revealed yesterday that, a few hours after the port had been captured, the Germans counter-attacked in such strength that, for a time, the British garrison in Augusta was cut off from the main body of General Montgomery's command, and it was only after some exceedingly severe fighting that the position was restored. The most recent reports claim that the British have taken possession of Brucoli, some miles along the coast between Augusta and Catania; but during the last few days British commentators have been striking a note of caution in an effort to warn the British public against over-sanguine expectations. The battle for Sicily is well under weigh; but it is by no means finished yet. In some respects, indeed, it hardly has begun in earnest. The Allies claim to have taken rather more than 12,000 prisoners, two-thirds of whom have fallen into the hands of the Americans. Two Italian Divisional Commanders, with their staffs, have been captured, and there is reason to believe that fairly heavy losses have been sustained by both sides. The general strategy of the invasion is beginning to emerge from the tactical operations which have been conducted with general success since the landings. The Anglo-American Allies are trying, in the first instance, to secure control of Catania, and in the next to seize Enna, the town in the middle of the island, possession of which would result in the cutting of Sicily in two. If the Americans can advance inland from the Licata-Gela line pari passu with the advance of the British along the eastern coast, this scheme will be quite feasible; and it is being helped by the merciless bombardment from the air of Messina, Palermo, and Trapani, which are Sicily's principal ports of supply in the north. If the British could take Catania all the German and Italian supplies would be forced to take the circuitous route around Etna; and, since all the railway lines in Sicily have only single tracks, this development would give a tremendous advantage to the Allies. For that reason, the Axis High Command probably will do everything possible to deny the British the use of Catania. Hitherto the British and Americans have enjoyed an almost undisputed superiority in the air—a fact which has facilitated their land operations enormously. So long as Catania remains in Axis hands, however, the main issue cannot be decided; and the restrained comments of newspapers such as The Times indicate that the Allied commanders have no illusions concerning the magnitude of the military task that lies before them.

Dear, Dirty, Dublin

A letter published recently in a contemporary has touched that curiously unaccountable thing that Dublin calls civic pride. The writer, a visitor to the city, spoke pungently of many things, and in particular of the dirt of the shops and streets. Several Dubliners, angry that a stranger should have the insolence to criticise thus their "fair city," retaliated with a clear statement of their conviction that the virtues of Dublin were her own, but the faults—few as they were—were the direct result of seven hundred years of oppression. The original correspondent has opened the next round with a further pointed communication, and the matter looks like developing into a full-blooded brawl. One might be tempted, perhaps, to applaud the civic pride of those citizens who are impelled to defend their city so fiercely against the charge of being dirty; yet it must seem curious that their civic pride has never once suggested to them that they should clean off the dirt. Ireland, unfortunately, has this mentality exceptionally well-developed. To an Irish patriot, criticism of his country is calumny, and must be repudiated; It is regarded as something to fight, not something to digest and act upon. As long ago as the year 1935, a leading article in this newspaper under the title "Dublin in Decay" stirred up a controversy as acrimonious as any that ever has featured in the Press. The writers were many of them well-known—Mr. Paul Henry, Professor Rudmose-Brown, Mr. Arthur Power, Mr. Francis Hackett, Mr. M. J. MacManus, Captain Jack White, Lord ffrench, and others; and the debate was based upon the suggestion that Ireland in general, and Dublin in particular, had not made the fullest possible use of fourteen years of freedom. Eight years more have passed; and still the charges levelled in that correspondence may be brought against this city. There are still some of the foulest slums that can be seen anywhere; the attempts to "clear" them are still short-sighted, planless, and unæsthetic; there is still no control of ribbon building, of hoardings, of rural building; there are even more palatial cinemas, and there is still no Dublin concert hall, and so on. What, one wonders, has been done in the last eight years? There has been enough defence of Dublin, and of Ireland, mostly by people whose slogan is "Ireland has everything that is worth having." There has been enough criticism to provoke that defence. There has not been enough serious consideration of the criticism. In a character or in a nation that cannot turn criticism to its own benefit, there is no possibility of greatness. The consciousness that one lives in a glass house tends to make one discourage stone-throwing; and, perhaps, our superiority complex is a sign that, while we could fight to gain freedom, we have not the real greatness that it takes to live free.

EIRE WORKERS' CONDITIONS

TRADES' UNION MOVE

Belfast and District Trades Union Council views with alarm the continued deterioration of the economic conditions of the workers and small farmers in the twenty-six counties," and has given notice of a motion to come before the Irish Trades Union Congress in Cork next week calling on the National Executive to approach the British T.U.C. to develop a campaign to improve trade between Britain and the twenty-six counties.

Other resolutions include one calling for the unification of all social insurance schemes in a comprehensive scheme to include family allowances, workmen's compensation, health services, unemployment benefits, old age, widow's and blind pensions and funeral benefits (Amalgamated Transport and General Workers' Union); a motion calling for a minimum agricultural wage (A.T. and G.W.U.); a motion asking that primary, secondary and university education should be free to all fitted to make use of them; a motion calling for the taking over of unions "for whose separate existence there is no industrial justification"; a motion protesting against "the campaign directed by certain medical interests against the hospital benefits section" of the National Health Insurance Society's new benefits scheme (National Executive).

"Refugees who have succeeded in getting away from the tyranny of the invaders of their country" are referred to in a motion in the name of the A.T. and G.W.U. which calls on the Government of Eire to give assistance to such refugees. The Irish National Union of Woodworkers calls for imprisonment for people selling food for more than the fixed prices. The Belfast and District Trades Council has also a motion that "This Congress, viewing with apprehension the statements made by irresponsibles and Government leaders in the Six Counties in relation to Eire workers in the North, calls upon the Executive to do everything within its power to campaign for the cementing of the bonds of friendship between the workers, North and South."

TREE FELLING APPEAL

The continued spoiling of beauty spots by extensive felling of trees is a subject on which reports continue to be received. Among places recently mentioned in this connection are Glenfiesk, near Killarney; Pontoon, Co. Mayo; Crosshaven, Co. Cork; Woodenbridge, Co. Wicklow, and Stillorgan Co. Dublin. Some time ago a report also drew attention to tree-felling at Avoca. Typical of the complaints made is a letter from J. Allen, Avalon, Stillorgan Park:—"Once more I write to ask if nothing can be done to prevent the destruction of beautiful trees. In this pleasant neighbourhood 125 trees have been sold and are being cut down rapidly, destroying some charming views and laying bare a small grove of beech trees—a miniature beauty spot.

"Have those who buy and sell no perception of beauty? Do the authorities on forestry, on agriculture, on rural planning, ever take any trouble to preserve the trees that have been growing for perhaps 100 years? Does officialdom think that the lover of beauty will always be gratified by miles of concrete? Must the country be stripped of its verdure and made a desert, even if we are living in difficult times? If you have any influence for the preservation of beauty spots, I beg of you to use it before it is too late."

Among the suggestions made is that this matter should be taken up by the Irish Tourist Association as it is of direct concern to many of our tourist resorts.

NEW AGRICULTURAL EDUCATION METHOD

The first practical attempt to put into operation an additional method of agricultural education new to this country, will be made by Muintir na Tire on July 31, when they open an agricultural summer school for young farmers and labourers at Copsewood College, Pallaskenry, Co. Limerick. Primarily intended for the young men in the Parish Guilds of Muintir na Tire, it will be the first school of its kind in the country and will be a practical proof of the efforts of the organisation to raise the dignity of those engaged in the agricultural profession. The course will last for eight days, will cost £3 per person, and will consist of a comprehensive series of lectures, demonstrations and tours of inspection.

Not only is it hoped to have a number of similar schools next year, but it has been suggested that the scheme could be extended to include young girls.

As you know there are high trees growing near the path. The wind broke a long heavy branch off one of the trees. It struck Cahal on the shoulder and knocked him down. Was there anybody present to help him? Why did not Cahal say something? 'It is what' he was so weak he could not say a word. After a while he got a little better. It was not long until big Thady's children came across the road. 'It is what' they were in a great hurry. Cahal rose on his elbow (he stuck his elbow under him). Did they send for a doctor? Yes. He attended to Cahal's shoulder. An accident happened to the doctor himself as he was going across the river. The stones were slippery and he fell headlong into the water. It was a bad journey for (my) poor doctor."

LONDON LETTER

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON, THURSDAY NIGHT.

THE collection of herbs is a work which all from six to sixty can undertake, and in some areas throughout the country the scheme is thriving. Apart from the herbs and roots required by the manufacturers of patent medicines, the Ministry of Supply, on behalf of official bodies, is asking for 500 tons of medicinal herbs and 1,000 tons of rosehips during the present year, and is urging all county herb committees to do their utmost to reach these targets. Some of the most urgently needed herbs, such as foxgloves and elder flowers, grow more profusely in the southern and western counties, and can be dried only by artificial heat. Nettles, coltsfoot, parsley, piert, couch grass, dandelion roots, burdock roots, etc., can be sun-dried, and are found in abundance almost everywhere. Eight to ten pounds of nettles are required to produce one pound of dried leaves.

Cycle Tube Shortage

The Ministry of Supply is bringing in further restrictions regarding the supply of inner tubes for cycles. Tyre factors have agreed to supply tubes or covers in future only to those dealers who have bought regularly from them in the past, and to sell no more to each dealer than he had been in the habit of getting. The dealers themselves are not to hand over a new tube until the cyclist hands in his old one. The aim is to save new tubes and to collect valves from the old ones, an economy both in metal and labour.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE

without Calomel—and you'll jump out of bed in the morning full of vim and vigour.

The liver should pour out two pints of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned, and you feel sour, sunk, and the world looks punk.

Laxatives help a little, but a mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pints of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 1/3 and 3/-.

THE SUIT CONSERVATION POLICY

Many men who a year or two back felt that a Sports Coat and flannel trousers were suitable only for the country or holidays are now wearing them on all except formal occasions. You see, rationing so limits a man's wardrobe that good suits must be conserved. They've got to last a long time now. You too may find a Sports coat and slacks from Seale's an excellent suit saver. Sports Coats in tweed from £3 19s. 6d. In Irish homespun from 5 gns.

Simple recipe restores colour to Grey Hair

Take years off your looks by giving your grey hair back its youthful colour. It's simple, safe, inexpensive, quickly. Here's the recipe To 1 pare half pint of water add one ounce of Bay Rum, a small box of Orlex Compound, and a quarter ounce glycerine. That's all! Any chemist will make it up or supply the ingredients. Apply the mixture twice weekly and your grey hair will soon glow with natural colour. Orlex isn't sticky, won't rub off and doesn't colour the scalp. Tear out this recipe and begin saving good-bye to grey hair to-day. Distributors in Eire: Maurice FitzGerald and Co., Ltd., 8/9 Temple Lane, Dublin.
